Why Our Bank Said "NO" to TARP Funds!

Recently, High Point Bank was approved to receive funds under the U.S. Government's Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP). However, after thorough evaluation and analysis, our bank will not accept TARP funding.

The reason is simple: Because of our financial strength, High Point Bank does not need government funding. In fact, we believe it is not in our shareholders' best interest, nor would it benefit our customers to accept TARP funds.

Some financial institutions have no choice but to participate in the program while others do so for various business reasons. However, we at High Point Bank are pleased and fortunate that we are able to decline government money. In our opinion, the restrictions, costs and future uncertainties of this taxpayer funded program far outweigh its potential benefits.

High Point Bank is and has always been fully committed to our customers' financial safety and security. We will continue to provide loans and secure financial services to the Triad community without assistance from the government. The sound and conservative management practices we have followed for more than 100 years continue to benefit our customers today and will serve them well into the future.

Please do not hesitate to call or stop by any of our bank locations, or visit our Website for more information about the strength and security of High Point Bank.
